

FLYNN ENVIRONMENTAL, INC.

UST Removal & Site Restoration Project, Clearfield, PA

Flynn Environmental was the low bidder on this major oil company's divestment project. The project scope of work consisted of the removal of the station building, canopy, and three UST systems, permanently disconnecting utilities, filling and compacting the excavation, and site restoration activities including paving, construction of landscape islands, and the erection of a light post. Flynn completed the project under time and budget, even though soil contamination was discovered and addressed. Flynn's experienced staff played a key role in determining that the contaminated soil could be excavated. The soil was removed, confirmatory samples were collected, and the site received a no further action letter from PADEP.
